

Democrats or Republicans in Congress

Democratic and Republicans are 2 major political parties in the United States dominating all three levels of the Government i.e., Legislative, Executive and Judicial. Democratic party was founded in 1790 by a group of Thomas Jefferson's supporters. Republican party alias Grand Old Party has its roots to the 1850 in the United States. Democratic party stood for individual rights and state sovereignty whereas Republicans party supports low taxes, deregulation, increased military spending, restrictions on abortion, restrictions on immigration, gun rights, and restrictions on labor unions. To choose the rule over United States, there is an electoral system which is called a two-party system.

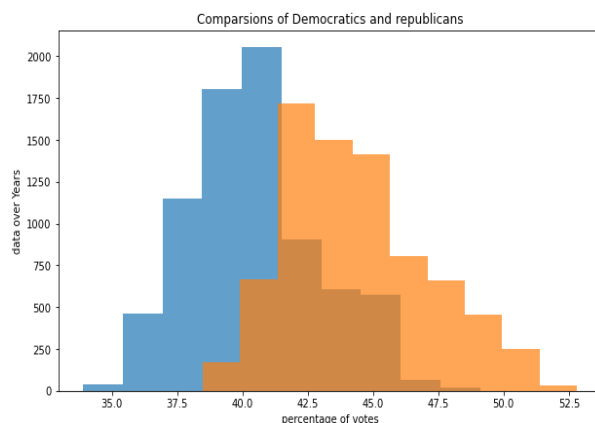

All the records were taken from Generic ballot, Generic ballot basically means a political poll which asks not which candidate you plan to vote for to represent you in Congress or for president, but rather which political party i.e., Democrat, Republican or Independent, you would vote for if the election were held today.

For each year the data includes, model data, democratic high and low polls, republicans high and low polls, democratic and republicans estimation per year.

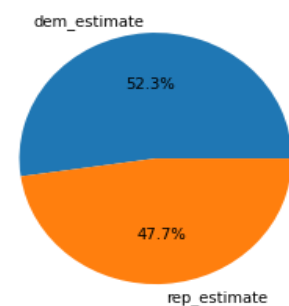

The most interesting finding are discussed below:

As the above graph shows the highest polls for democratic and republicans i.e., 58.64% and 55.01%, lowest polls for democratic and republicans are 31.24% and 26.15% from 1995-2018.

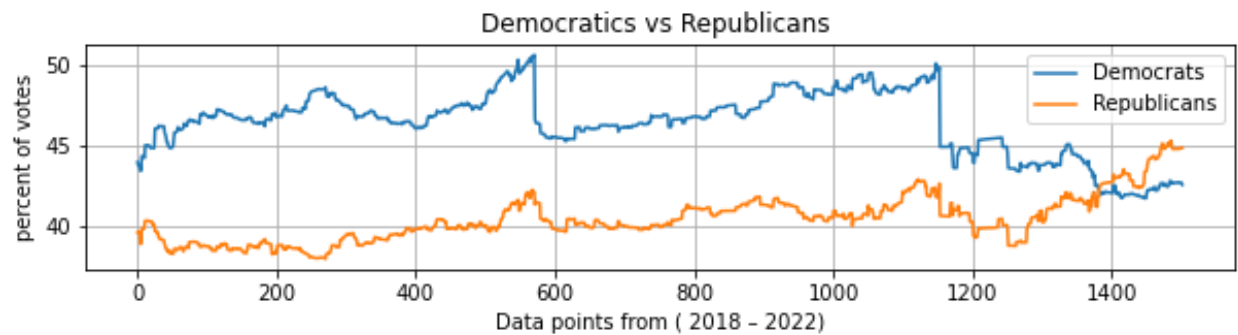

Overall percentage of votes for Democrats and Republicans

The people the analysis of comparing of Democratic and Republicans polls says that most of the people choose Democratic.

During 19th century, The Republicans party stood against the extension of slavery to the country's new territories and, ultimately, for slavery's complete abolition. In the 20th and 21st century, The Republicans party was associated with laissez-faire capitalism, low taxes and conservative social policies.

As per the data from 1995-2018, we can say that most of the voters wants Democratic over Republicans, but in the past years, we have observed from the above graph (Democratic vs Republicans) that people are choosing Republicans party over Democratic.

From 2018-2022, We observed that there is a significant raise in Republicans votes, this is because of new association and philosophy towards better growth. On recent observations, it came to know that there won't be any rough consensus with Democrats in the future of United States.

Reference: <https://www.britannica.com/summary/Democratic-Party> and <https://www.advisorperspectives.com/commentaries/2021/11/23/the-generic-ballot-what-to-know-why-its-so-important>